

Bird

What does a bird feel as it flies?

As its feathers glide through the air,
Slicing through like a sharpened knife.

What does a bird feel as it flies?

As its oiled feathers shine in the dappled sunlight.

A bird must feel majestic,

like a handsome dragon, tail rippling in the air as it flies.

But most of all a bird must feel free,

free as that same dragon,

unbound by the chains of reality and free of the walls of captivity.