

I Was Born a Few Minutes Ago

I was born a few minutes ago
But my daddy said to let that tale go
I had my picture taken on the walls
Until I watched my favorite part fall

There was so much I could ever ask
But I don't think I could last a minute without you though

I didn't want to ever call
So I watched you all
The stars are shaped just like you
So, I could just go through

Well I never thought I would say this though
The memories have gone so slow
But I guess they say the past is in the past
I wanted it to last and last
